

500 m

This is an aerial photograph of a coastal area, likely a bay or inlet. The land is characterized by a dense network of roads and numerous small, rectangular buildings, suggesting a populated area. The coastline is irregular, with several peninsulas and inlets. A scale bar in the top right corner indicates a distance of 500 meters. The water is a dark, uniform color, contrasting with the lighter, textured land.